

Is it true that some celebrities contract Motivational Speakers as life coaches as a way to focus on new projects or goals?

celebrity motivational inspirational keynote speaker faq The role, in this case, of the motivational speaker, would not be considered a life coach unless the motivational speaker is trained as a life coach. Career coaches and life coaches do share a similar path, but it is dependent on what the client wants to achieve. Motivational speakers can coach celebrities on how to stay focused, planning and how to implement their plans. This type of coaching is more along the lines of a business coach. Training is always the key. If the motivational speaker is trained in life coaching, they can be an effective asset to anyone.